School-based health centers (SBHC)

SBHC's are uniquely situated to bring health care professionals and educators together to address the multifaceted needs of children, youth and families. Some SBHCs serve only students, while others also serve family members or the broader community surrounding the school. SBHCs provide a safe place for students and family members to talk about challenging issues (depression, behavior problems, academic performance, substance abuse, sexuality or relationships, etc.). School based/Community health centers offer information, counseling, condoms, and appointments to get tested. Free of cost!
